

It is vital for the FCC to allow only nationally certified (RID or NAD IV/V) work as video relay interpreter. Interpreters who are not certified have a variety of skills and are often not skilled enough to handle the wide variety of work and difficulty level of video work.